TRAVELPORT POSTPONES IPO

Travelport announces that at this time, following a review of market conditions, it has decided against proceeding with an initial public offering of Ordinary Shares and listing on the London Stock Exchange.

Jeff Clarke, Travelport's Chief Executive Officer, commented:

"Since we announced our intention to float, there has been significantly increased volatility and uncertainty in Global Equity Markets, as a result of macro circumstances unrelated to our business.

Travelport has a 40 year track record of success in a dynamic and growing industry. It is a strong company with an attractive financial model and great momentum, as demonstrated by recent contract wins. The business remains on track to continue delivering outstanding value for its shareholders. We will consider bringing it back to the market at a future date, when Equity Market conditions are more favourable."

This announcement is not for release, publication or distribution, directly or indirectly, in or into the United States, Canada, Japan, Australia or South Africa or any jurisdiction where such announcement would be unlawful. The distribution of this announcement may be restricted by law in certain jurisdictions and persons into whose possession any document or other information referred to herein comes should inform themselves about and observe any such restriction.

This announcement does not constitute an offer of, or the solicitation of an offer to buy, securities for sale in any jurisdiction, including the United States. The securities referred to herein have not been and will not be registered under the US Securities Act of 1933

(the "Securities Act"), and may not be offered or sold in the United States unless they are registered under the Securities Act or pursuant to an available exemption therefrom. No public offering of securities of Travelport is being made in the United States.

Certain statements in this announcement are "forward-looking" statements within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act and Section 21E of the US Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and that involve risks and uncertainties. Important factors could cause actual results to differ, possibly materially, from those in the forward-looking statements. In some cases it is possible to identify forward-looking statements by words such as "anticipate", "believe", "could", "estimate", "expect", "intend", "may", "plan", "predict", "potential", "should", "will", "would" and other similar words or, in each case, their negative or other variations or comparable terminology. Statements containing such words should be read carefully because they discuss Travelport's future priorities, goals, strategies, actions to improve business performance, market growth assumptions and expectations, new products, product pricing, future business opportunities, capital expenditure, financing needs, financial position and other information that is not historical information or state other "forward-looking" information. Forward-looking statements speak only as of the date they are made and may and often do differ materially from actual results. Travelport assumes no obligation to update forward-looking statements to reflect actual results, changes in assumptions or changes in other factors affecting forward-looking statements except to the extent required by applicable securities laws.
